Level: B1

Duration: 60 minutes

Topic: Vocabulary for meetings

Main objective: By the end of the lesson, the student will be able to understand and use common vocabulary and expressions for participating in a professional sales meeting.

1. Lead-in-Your Experience with Meetings

10 minutes

Start by activating the student's own vocabulary.

The teacher asks:

How often do you have meetings at work?

Who usually attends your meetings?

What types of meetings do you have?

Do you usually have meetings online or face-to-face?

What do you usually discuss in sales meetings?

What makes a meeting successful?

What problems can happen during a meeting?

2. Warm-up activity. Ask students to describe the following images. Explain words such as "host," "guests," "brainstorming," "kickoff," etc.

3. Vocabulary Presentation - The Language of Meetings

15/20 minutes

Present the following vocabulary list:

A. Before the meeting

5. Reading-A Sales Team Meeting

15 minutes

This should be the main contextual input, similar to the "Meeting a New Business Contact" text in Lesson 1. Your first lesson uses a professional situation to introduce the language before moving into vocabulary work.

A Weekly Sales Meeting

It's Monday morning, and the sales team at TechPro is having its weekly meeting. The Sales Manager, Sarah, is leading the meeting. Three Account Managers and a Business Development Executive are also attending.

Sarah: Good morning, everyone. Thanks for joining. Let's get started. The main objective of today's meeting is to review our sales performance and discuss our priorities for this week.

Tom: Sounds good.

Sarah: First, let's look at last week's results. Tom, could you give us an update on your accounts?

Tom: Sure. I contacted five potential clients last week. Two of them are interested in our software solution. I'm planning to schedule another call with them this week.

Sarah: Great. What about the other three?

Tom: Two aren't ready to buy yet, and one client asked for more information about our pricing.

Sarah: Okay. Let's come back to pricing later. Maria, could you tell us about your biggest sales opportunity?

Maria: Yes. I'm working with a company that needs a new CRM system. They like our proposal, but they're concerned about the budget.

Sarah: I see. Do you think we can offer them a different package?

Maria: I think we could. From my perspective, a smaller package could be a good solution.

Sarah: I agree. Let's discuss that after the meeting. Now, let's move on to this week's priorities.

Tom: Can I raise a point?

Sarah: Of course.

Tom: I think we need to follow up with some of our older leads. We haven't contacted them recently.

Sarah: Good point. Let's make that an action item. Tom, could you prepare a list of the leads we need to contact?

Tom: Sure.

Sarah: Great. So, to summarize, our priorities are following up with old leads, contacting new prospects, and preparing the new proposal. Let's meet again on Friday to review our progress.

A. Reading Comprehension

Who is leading the meeting?

What is the main objective of the meeting?

How many potential clients did Tom contact?

What information does one client want?

What problem does Maria's potential client have?

What solution does Maria suggest?

What point does Tom raise?

What action item does Sarah give Tom?

What are the team's three priorities?

When will the team meet again?

6. Vocabulary in Context

10 minutes

Ask the student to find examples from the text.

Find expressions for:

Starting a meeting
> _____

Stating the objective
> _____

Asking someone for an update
> _____

Moving to another topic
> _____

Asking for someone's opinion
> _____

Giving an opinion
> _____

Introducing a new point
> _____

Agreeing with someone
> _____

Assigning an action item
> _____

Summarizing a meeting
> _____

This follows the same approach you used in Lesson 1, where the student extracts useful professional expressions directly from the dialogue.

If there's extra time, I suggest doing a roleplay activity, where students can pretend they arrange a meeting and use the vocabulary learned in class.

7. Wrap-up & Feedback

5 minutes

The teacher gives feedback on:

Grammar accuracy

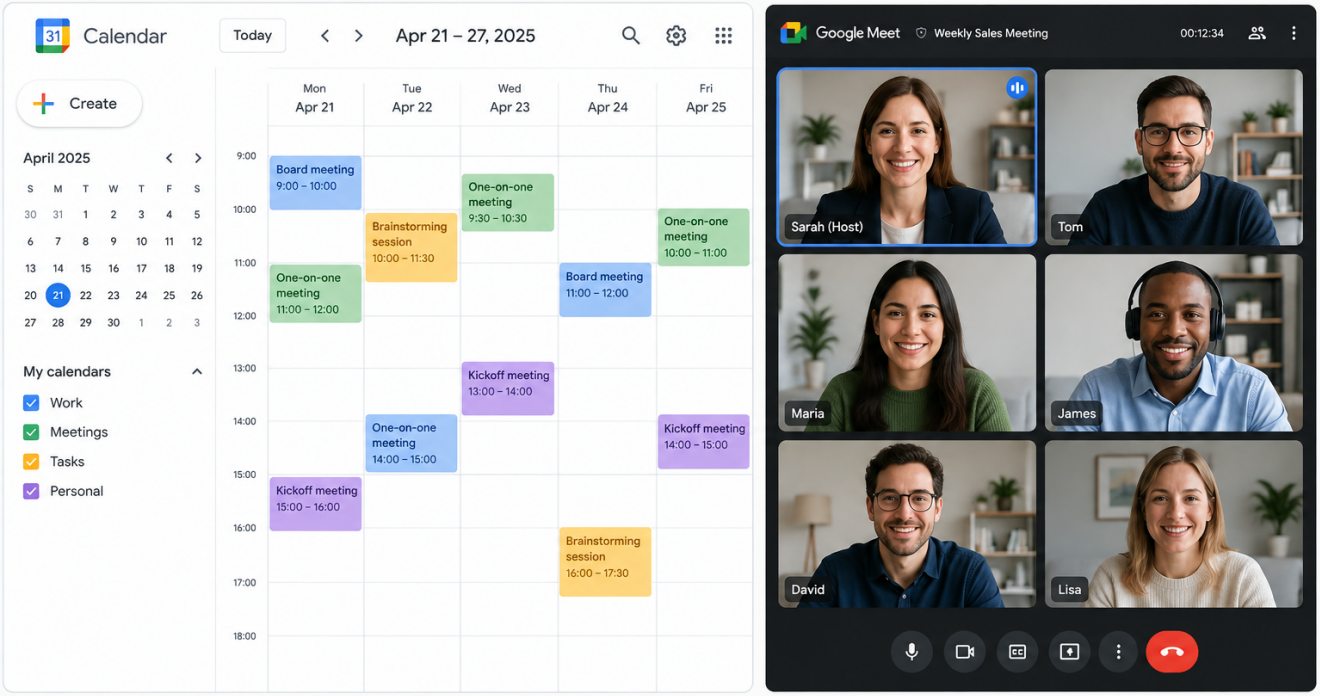

Vocabulary

Pronunciation

Fluency

Professional register
